

SCHOOL OF PHILOLOGY AND LANGUAGE COMMUNICATION

School of Philology and Language Communication is a diverse, vibrant and active academic community. As a part of Siberian Federal University, the School aims to deliver an exceptional education in modern languages, philology and mass media, to carry out world-leading research, and to make significant contributions to society - locally, nationally, and internationally. Our extensive and ever-expanding global links have been developed to serve these principles.

Bachelor's Degree Programs:

45.03.01 Russian Philology

42.03.02 Journalism

45.03.02 Linguistics (Chinese, Japanese, English, German, Spanish, French)

45.03.02 Russian as a Foreign Language

Master's Degree Programs:

45.04.01 Russian Language

45.04.01 Russian Literature

45.04.02 Intercultural Communication and Translation

42.04.02 Media Studies: Management and Technologies

PhD Degree Programs:

10.01.01 Russian Literature

10.01.01 Russian Language

10.02.19 Language Theory

Our partners:

the University of Alicante (Spain)

the University of Cadiz (Spain)

the University of Passau (Germany)

the University of Paris-X (France)

Beijing Language and Culture University (China)

Shanghai International Studies University (China)

Capital Normal University (China)

Northeast Normal University (China)

Shandong University (China)

Heilongjiang University (China)

Sun Yat-Sen University (China)

Aichi Gakuin University (Japan)

School of Philology and Language Communication has a record of consistently strong academic performance, and welcomes applications from students of high potential, whatever their background.

